EDL 100. Career Development for College Students. (2)
This course is designed to take students through the process of clarifying career and/or academic goals. Students will do research assignments and activities designed to help them to learn about themselves and how to apply this information to career decision making.

EDL 110. The University and the Student. (1)
Helps students understand how the university operates and how its resources can be used to develop their educational goals. Taught in seminar style; designed to help develop personal relationships among students and instructor. For freshmen only. Credit/no-credit only.

EDL 115. Miami Tribe Contemporary Issues I. (1)
Introduce and explore the major issues that the Miami Tribe of Oklahoma faces today as a sovereign Nation. These issues will be contextualized within Indian Country as a whole as well as within the broader global indigenous community. Focus is on the issues of sovereignty, self-determination, governance, leadership, economic development, and education.

EDL 141. Mentoring Diverse Students. (2; maximum 2)
This course is the required training seminar for the Office of Diversity Affairs Connection Coach Peer Mentor Program. Only students accepted into the Connection Coach program through the Office of Diversity Affairs are permitted registration into this course. This course illuminates the connection between student development theory and peer mentoring and peer coaching. It is intended that through the study of student development theory and cultural competency standards, as well as exercises around identity development, peer mentors will become more self-reflective. Furthering this understanding of self will result in a better-equipped mentor.

EDL 151. The American University. (2)
This course is intended to acclimate and acculturate first year International students to the U.S. educational culture and in particular to the Miami University culture. Through this experiential course, International students begin to build intercultural competencies, including the cultural intelligence necessary to succeed in an American university, and in the broader U.S. cultural context; are introduced to resources and offices on campus to assist in transition and adjustment; develop, adjust, and use academic skills needed to understand and navigate study load, test culture, academic integrity, class participation, residence hall life, advising, classroom technology, counseling and health issues, and extracurricular activities, among others.

EDL 177. Independent Studies. (0-5)
EDL 195. Team Building Development - Facilitation & Group Dynamics. (2)
This course is an introduction to group facilitation and group management. This course will focus on the building and development of community. Students will think critically, process & debrief experiences within a community of people, and establish skills towards a Challenge Course Level 1 certification. Content will explore sequencing, planning and presenting activities. Student will have several opportunities to practice their skills in group facilitation and experience team building activities that they can then use in their professional life later on.

EDL 203. Introduction to Critical Youth Studies. (3) (MPF)
An overview of Critical Youth Studies which allows class participants to explore and appreciate their identities, to develop an awareness of issues affecting different populations of youth, and to learn a variety of tools for self-expression and activism. This curriculum draws from key fields in youth studies such as Educational Studies, Cultural Studies, Ethnic Studies, Gender Studies, Sexuality Studies, Performance Studies, Literary Studies, and Art Criticism to provide students with a multidisciplinary and layered understanding of youth. EDL 203 foregrounds underrepresented voices and bodies that have been invisible and/or marginalized within the study of youth, specifically, and U.S. society, generally. The primary aims of this course are to: 1) Introduce students to the area of critical youth studies, 2) Alert students to existing programs, initiatives, and movements connected to this area of study. 3) Expose students to multidisciplinary ways of engendering self-expression as youth and working with youth. IIC. IC.

EDL 204. Sociocultural Studies in Education. (3) (MPF, MPT)
Introduction to the field of social foundation of education using humanities and cultural studies approaches to investigate education in a diverse and democratic nation. IIB, IC.

EDL 215. Miami Tribe Contemporary Issues 2. (1)
In this course we will introduce and explore the major issues that the Miami Tribe of Oklahoma faces today as a sovereign Nation. These issues will be contextualized with comparisons to Indian Country as a whole as well as to broader global indigenous experiences. In this second semester of the course, we will specifically focus on the global manifestations of nationhood, sovereignty, and self-determination in classic governmental structures, like constitutions, and in locations or activities that are not normally associated with issues of political or economic sovereignty, like art. Through this exploration, we will attempt to develop a framework of comparative indigenous nationhood.
Prerequisite: EDL 115.
EDL 216. Myaamia Ecology & History 1. (1)
In this course we will introduce, explore, and weave together various perspectives of Myaamia (Miami) ecology and history. The ecological observations of this first course will be heavily influenced by the seasonal transition from summer into winter that occurs during the fall semester. From these observations, the class will create a shared understanding of the web of relationships that links humans, animals, plants, landscapes, other-than-human beings, and the stories that one particular group of humans “the Myaamiaki” have told about these interactions over time. Through an exploration of some of the general aspects of Myaamia ecology and history, each individual participant of the class will begin to develop their own personalized understanding of this complex web of relationships. Half of the class meetings will be dedicated to discussing historical topics, i.e. focused on the past, but one of our explicit goals is to discuss how historical understandings and ecological practices are a part of, or can be made a part of, our contemporary lives.

EDL 218. Leadership Identity Development. (3)
This course provides students with an intentional and guided examination of their leadership identity. Over the course of the year, students will participate in leadership development and reflection activities grouped within four domains of exploration: Self, Others, Knowledge and Experiential. Students will draw from these domains to develop a personal leadership philosophy that can help guide their future leadership activities. The course activities are completed in a self-paced format and complemented by monthly seminar meetings.

EDL 224. Introduction to Education Policy. (3)
This course provides an introduction to educational policy in the United States. We will examine both the broader political context within which education policy is made as well as the policy making process. The course will introduce students to a range of current topics that define the current debates in education, including, but not limited to, test based accountability, equity and adequacy for special populations, and school choice. In analyzing these debates, students will use the various disciplinary perspectives to understand the complexity of current issues in American K-12 education.

EDL 232. Introduction to Community-Based Leadership. (3) (MPF)
Introduction to Community-Based Leadership explores theories and practices of leadership in public institutions and communities. Students critically examine three concepts central to community-based leadership: public, leadership, and democracy. Using the scholarship of leadership studies and civic engagement, students explore what it means to work in public life and lead for the public good in local, national, and international contexts. Students accomplish these goals through readings, class discussions, analytical and reflective writing, and community-based learning experiences connecting theory with practice. The course will help students develop their own vision and plan for participating in community-based leadership as Miami students and as engaged citizens. IIC.

EDL 260. Undergraduate Research: Special Topics. (1; maximum 4)
Using the discovery learning model and inquiry-based learning, this course is designed to push students beyond their desire to gain information from external authorities. This course will be offered to students who are engaged in undergraduate research. This is a special topics course that may include experience and discuss library research techniques; research ethics and human subjects; organizational strategies for college researchers; literature reviews, research annotations and abstracts; leadership and communication skills; quantitative and qualitative research techniques; statistical software; research careers and professional development; learning plans, personal mission statements and goal setting; proposal writing and poster development and presentation.

EDL 277. Independent Studies. (0-5)
EDL 281. Outdoor Leadership Study Away/Study Abroad. (3)
This course examines the role of an outdoor leader through study and work at off-campus sites. Students explore theoretical and practical implications of this type of leadership in a study-away context. Pre-trip preparation will include learning about group dynamics, trip planning models, expedition behavior, risk management, and environmental stewardship in the context of outdoor leadership. The course will include a variety of location-based outdoor adventure activities and experiences to enable students to put theory to practice in an outdoor setting.

EDL 290. The Nature of Group Leadership. (2; maximum 6)
A two-credit course for students interested in exploring multiple approaches to leadership and building capacity for socially responsible leadership. The course involves engaged learning through community action work, skill building, reading, writing, case analysis, and dialogue.

EDL 301. Student Development in Residence Halls. (1)
Practical study of theories and techniques used in creating and maintaining learning environments that foster student growth and development in college residence halls. Includes student development theories, community development techniques, personal and environmental assessment, and strategies for influencing group living and behavior. Prequisite: current resident assistant or permission of instructor.

EDL 302. Career Entry Skills and Post-College Planning. (2)
Designed to assist students in making the transition from college to the world-of-work, service, self-employment, and/or graduate or professional school. Gain awareness of self and how skills, interests, and values impact career satisfaction and success, clarify career options and/or post-college opportunities, develop necessary job search correspondence and interview techniques and prepare for the transition from student life to professional life.

EDL 310. College Student Development and Group Process for Peer Educators. (1)
An interactive course providing a theoretical and applied examination of college student development and group process as they relate to peer education. Major content areas include: models of college student development, communication and helping skills, workshop design, and multicultural considerations in programming.
EDL 312. Foundations of Education in Global Contexts. (3)
This class will focus on the theoretical foundations of education in global contexts, as well as issues influencing the field. Topics will include: globalization; education reforms, political, cultural, and religious influences, centralization and decentralization policies, colonialism and its legacies, and access to education among others. The goal of this class is to uncover why education is the way it is in other contexts, determine the limitations of understanding other contexts, and evaluate the extent to which elements of education are transferable between contexts.

EDL 315. Disability History in America. (3)
An introduction to the history of disabilities in America, providing an overview of major themes, events, individuals, policy developments and political and social activism of, by, and for people with disabilities, as well as an introduction to the historical subfield of history of disabilities.
Cross-listed with DST.

EDL 316. Myaamia Ecology & History 2. (1)
In this course we will continue to weave together the various perspectives of Myaamia (Miami) ecology and history, which were introduced in the first semester. The ecological observations of the second course will be heavily influenced by the seasonal transition from winter into summer that occurs during the spring semester. From these observations, the class will create a shared understanding of the web of relationships that links humans, animals, plants, landscapes, other-than-human beings, and the stories that one particular group of humans “the Myaamiaki” have told about these interactions over time. Through an exploration of some of the general aspects of Myaamia ecology and history, each individual participant of the class will begin develop their own personalized understanding of this complex web of relationships. Half of the class meetings will be dedicated to discussing historical topics, i.e. focused on the past, but one of our explicit goals is to discuss how historical understandings and ecological practices are a part of, or can be made a part of, our contemporary lives. The second semester of this course will more explicitly focus on traditional stories and historical narratives. These oral and textual sources will be used to contextualize the ecological knowledge that students began developing in the first semester of the course.

EDL 317. Myaamiaatawenki: Myaamia Language & Culture 1. (1)
This course is the first of a two-course series that introduces the Myaamia language and culture. The goal of this class is to expose students to Myaamia language and culture and create thoughtful discussions about why maintaining the Myaamia heritage language and culture is important. This course will build off of the experiences, knowledge, and skills acquired in EDL 316 by adding greater linguistic and cultural complexities to students’ knowledge of contemporary issues and historical and ecological contexts. The course will advance each student’s use of the Myaamia language towards a more functional level. Students will be exposed to more immersive language environments and will demonstrate an ability to express simple wants and needs in the Myaamia language.
Prerequisite: EDL 316.

EDL 318A. Teacher Leadership and School Organization. (3)
This course is designed to challenge and shape students’ conceptions of educational organizations and cultures; their professional development as teachers and/or educational staff members; as well as the acts of teaching, curriculum development, teaming and leadership. The course encourages the development of personal and professional theoretical frameworks and practical tools for enhancing awareness of and action in educational roles as decision-maker, curriculum-creator, inquirer, community member/builder, democratic citizen, team member, teacher and leader.

EDL 318E. Teacher Leadership and School Organization. (3)
This course is designed to challenge and shape students’ conceptions of educational organizations and cultures; their professional development as teachers and/or educational staff members; as well as the acts of teaching, curriculum development, teaming and leadership. The course encourages the development of personal and professional theoretical frameworks and practical tools for enhancing awareness of and action in educational roles as decision-maker, curriculum-creator, inquirer, community member/builder, democratic citizen, team member, teacher and leader.

EDL 318M. Teacher Leadership and School Organization. (3)
This course is designed to challenge and shape students’ conceptions of educational organizations and cultures; their professional development as teachers and/or educational staff members; as well as the acts of teaching, curriculum development, teaming and leadership. The course encourages the development of personal and professional theoretical frameworks and practical tools for enhancing awareness of and action in educational roles as decision-maker, curriculum-creator, inquirer, community member/builder, democratic citizen, team member, teacher and leader.

EDL 333. Youth, Media & Pop Culture. (3)
This course offers a critical analysis of role of media and pop culture in the lives youth. Students will examine how youth interact with and influence diverse forms of media. Course content will explore how cultural products such as media and pop culture shape societal views of youth and inform how youth view themselves.

EDL 334. Transnational Youth Cultures. (3) (MPF, MPT)
Using contemporary social and educational theory, this course introduces the student to the historical construction of adolescence and youth in global context. The course also explores cultural practices of transnational youths as a socio-historical construction that is affected by contemporary conditions of neo-liberalism, neo-colonialism and globalization. IIIB, IC.
Cross-listed with AAA.

EDL 340. Internship. (0-20)

EDL 352. Teaching in International Contexts. (1)
This course prepares students who have no background or experience in teaching and who plan to teach for a short time overseas, either individually or through a University program, such as Ambassadors for Children, the African School Advancement Program and other groups. The course introduces students to the cultural, historical, political and educational context in which the student plans to teach; preliminary skills of curriculum development, lesson planning, and instructional strategies; basic principles of teaching English as a Second Language; and basic preparation for international travel and immersion.
EDL 369. Sexuality, Youth, Education. (3)
This interdisciplinary course utilizes insights from a variety of areas - such as literature, sociology, popular culture, law, and medicine - to analyze how contemporary discourses of sexuality are viewed from multiple perspectives. The course investigates how discourses of sexuality co-mingle with discourses of youth with special attention to the intersections of race, ethnicity, class, gender, nationality and ability. Working from a Critical Youth Studies (CYS) framework and similar theoretical positions, the course privileges scholarship and community-based educational models which foreground issues of equity, social justice, and youth participatory activism. Central questions addressed throughout the course include: What is sexuality, and what does race have to do with it? How are notions of innocence, purity, risk and danger tied to particular bodies, identities and desires? How do the logics, structures and processes of late capitalism and globalization shape the cultural politics of sexuality?.

EDL 377. Independent Studies. (0-5)

EDL 382. Community-Based Research & Learning in Education. (3)
This course introduces students to community-based approaches to research, learning, and development with an emphasis on education issues. Working with local non-profits, schools, and community organizations students will use community-based participatory research (CBPR) as a research paradigm to explore and address a range of education issues at the community level. This course will familiarize participants with key principles of CBPR practice; community assessment; issue analysis; research planning; data gathering; and data sharing. The course will also develop student capacities in cultural competence; working with diverse populations; and ethical considerations in community-based work.

EDL 383. Service in Urban Communities. (3)
The purpose of this course is to afford students the opportunity to implement or be involved in a service project in or with a local urban community that will run over the duration of the semester. The course provides students the opportunity to further develop themselves as servant-leaders who are culturally proficient, critically aware of the race and class dynamics that shape life in urban communities, and thoughtful about how best to respond to challenges that hinder community wellbeing.

EDL 390. A Comparative View of Student Affairs Practice II. (4)
This study abroad course is an opportunity for students to delve more deeply into international perspectives on higher education and student affairs work. Enrollment in this course requires engagement in pre-departure sessions, travel abroad to gain a first-hand view of higher education systems and student affairs work in other countries, and participation in a post-travel class session debriefing the travel experiences and exploring the implications for a career in student affairs.

EDL 416. Myaamiaataweenki: Myaamia Language & Culture 2. (1)
This course is the second of a two-course series that introduces the Myaamia language and culture. The goal of this course is to expose students to intermediate concepts in the Myaamia language and culture and to develop thoughtful representations of the use of the Myaamia language and culture. This course will build off of the knowledge gained in EDL 317 and will explore greater linguistic and cultural complexities to students' knowledge of contemporary issues, historical contexts, and ecological changes. In this course, students will continue to practice functional language skills developed in EDL 317. By the end of the course, students will have developed the ability to recount and understand short narrative speech in the Myaamia language.
Prerequisite: EDL 317.

EDL 464. Community-Based Leadership and Change. (3)
This course provides students with an opportunity to synthesize what they have learned about community-based leadership through their coursework in the CBL minor and demonstrate mastery of primary leadership competencies, concepts, principles and practices. Students will be guided in designing and developing a substantial research project that incorporates significant learning from their program. This course challenges each student to choose an aspect of community impact, and to create and begin implementing an actual community engagement strategy. Readings and discussions focus on effective tools and strategies for creating lasting change, including the leader's role as a catalyst and convener.
Prerequisite: EDL 232.

EDL 477. Independent Studies. (0-5)

EDL 600. Independent Reading. (1-3; maximum 9)

Explore philosophical theories and discourses to address moral and political questions regarding the ultimate aims of post-secondary education, focusing primarily on the United States 2- and 4-year college and university system. Opportunity to integrate and synthesize understanding of learning, learners, and learning contexts into a professional philosophy of education.
Prerequisite: EDL 731 and SAHE major or permission of instructor.

EDL 761. Introduction to Doctoral Study in Educational Leadership. (3)
An orientation to doctoral study in educational leadership, emphasizing goal setting, research skills, and studying in a diverse community.
Prerequisite: admission to EDL doctoral program.

EDL 762. Culture and Leadership in Education. (3)
This core introductory doctoral seminar is designed to explore various social theories that consider the relationship between culture and educational leadership. The course will focus on a few theories that provide promise for new ways of constructing a theory of culture-based leadership.

EDL 763. Seminar in Advanced Qualitative Research Methodology. (3)
This course prepares doctoral students to conduct independent dissertation research utilizing qualitative research methodologies including critical narrative analysis, ethnography and case study research. As an advanced interdisciplinary seminar, students should come with some experience involving the theory and practice of person-based or textual research.
Prerequisite: EDL 683 or permission of instructor.

EDL 764. Education and Democratic Society. (3)
This core doctoral seminar explores educational questions of democracy, justice, and cultural difference through disciplinary lenses of the social foundations of education, primarily philosophy and history of education. Students will study, compare, contrast and critique several different conceptual frameworks for understanding democratic theory and educational practice.

EDL 765. Curriculum, Pedagogy and Diversity. (3)
A core doctoral seminar providing students with a foundational understanding of the historical and contemporary issues, theories, and practices that make up the curriculum field.

EDL 771. Educational Policy Analysis. (3)
Provides broad understanding of educational policy considerations of formulation and implementation of decisions. Conceptual and methodological conclusions about the complex nature of educational governance and organizational analysis are examined.

EDL 772. Quantitative Research Design in Education. (3)
Introduction to Quantitative Research in education. Students identify a research problem and apply analytic and design skills necessary to develop a dissertation proposal.
Prerequisites: EDL 661 or EDL667/EHS 667.

EDL 774. Scholarship of Practice. (2; maximum 4)
To cultivate the knowledge, habits and skills associated with inquiry-driven leadership through exploring, designing, and executing research around problems of practice in educational contexts. Students will gain advanced knowledge and skills related to application of research-based knowledge in educational leadership to policy and practice, including applications that address the critical challenges of improving education for all learners in complex, multicultural environments.

EDL 775. Capstone in Educational Inquiry. ()
Seminar to explore major theoretical foundations used in educational research. Examines different educational researchers conceive of the concepts of knowledge and social reality and how those concepts affect educational research.
Prerequisite: EDL 683 and EDL 772.

EDL 776. Research/Inquiry Practicum in Student Affairs/Higher Education. (3; maximum 6)
Conduct supervised research with faculty. Students will gain hands-on experience in all aspects of research process including: framing research questions, choosing methodology and methods appropriate to the research question, Institutional Review Board approval, data collection, data analysis and interpretation, and scholarly writing.
Prerequisite: EDL 654; SAHE major or permission of instructor.

EDL 780. Advanced Seminar in Educational Administration. (1-5; maximum 15)
Various topics of current interest.
Prerequisite: permission of instructor.
EDL 781. Youth, Culture and Education. (3)
explores youth subcultures with implications for how educators develop a culturally-relevant, engaging curriculum and pedagogy. This course applies a cultural studies and youth studies research lens for considering how representations of youth that circulate in US culture impact the way educators imagine, engage, and regulate youth in and through educational ideology, policy and practice.

EDL 782. Social Justice and Transformation. (3)
This course introduces major theories of social justice and links these to the practice of social justice education in schools and communities through active school-community engagement in a field-based project.

EDL 783. Curriculum, Politics, and Policy. (3)
This course explores how curriculum is conceived in educational policy. Students engage in critical analysis of the politics and policies of formal and informal curriculum.

EDL 784. Power, Knowledge and Difference. (3)
This course examines the educational and curricular consequences of the epistemological foundations of western educational philosophy. In particular the course examines the challenges posed to these foundations by diverse standpoint epistemologies, including feminist theory, critical race theory, queer theory and post colonial theory.

EDL 785. Theorizing Gender, Sexuality, and Education. (3)
This course examines the multiple, changing meanings and political effects of gender and sexuality in various socio-cultural and educational contexts. It foregrounds analysis of how social institutions, such as education, the law, family and economy, and cultural representations, such as literary and popular media, shape competing concepts of gender and sexuality. The course readings and collective dialogue place particular attention on feminist scholarship on women, girls and sexual minorities. Cross-listed with WGS 785.

EDL 786. Race, Ethnicity, Education. (3)
This course introduces key theories, concepts and epistemologies in critical race studies and considers how they frame and address educational injustice.

EDL 787. Leadership for the Public Good. (3)
This course is an examination of emerging models of leadership, organizational change, and leadership strategies for linking schools, families and communities. The course focuses on theoretical frameworks related to leadership and social and organizational improvement in schools and communities.
