

Applied Social Science Minor

The Minor in Applied Social Science offers students a comprehensive understanding of the social dynamics that shape our world and equips them with valuable skills in research, analysis, and critical thinking. The minor provides students with a broad understanding of human behavior, societal structures, and cultural variety, along with practical skills in research and analysis. Students will take a core ASO course: ASO 201 (Introduction to Applied Social Research), three courses at the 100-level from three different disciplines (ATH, GEO, POL, PSY, and SOC), and any two courses from three different disciplines at the 200-400 level in ATH, GEO, POL, PSY, or SOC.

Students majoring in ATH, GEO, POL, PSY, PSS, or SOC not eligible for this minor.
